

ABOUT STEPHENS REAL ESTATE

Since 1978, Stephens Real Estate has proudly served Lawrence and the surrounding communities. We've never lost sight of the values that led to our success. We are still independent, still full-service, and still linked to the community through roots that run decades deep. We continue to innovate and educate to make sure every client enjoys the highest level of personalized service from agents who are the best in the business. The Stephens team delivers unparalleled service and creative options every time.

People are our most important asset, and we're fortunate to have a lot of a talented and knowledgeable people working at Stephens. We empower our agents with the tools, technology, and resources to help clients successfully buy or sell their home. Our agents are strategic thinkers who value strong relationships and taking care of clients and friends. It's a formula that helps our agents be the best in the business.

Firmly entrenched in the Lawrence community, we respect our independence, but know full well that our success is a direct result of our dependence on the great people of Lawrence. That's why we are honored to give back to the community we serve and encourage all who live here to do the same.

At Stephens, we know real estate, we know Lawrence, and we know how to deliver a better real estate experience every time for our clients.

We are committed to delivering all of our clients with the absolute best experience during their real estate transaction. That means we do it all, from listing to closing and everything in between.
